Ádam Raga will try to obtain first place at the Trial World Championship in Motegi, Japan

The GAS GAS rider Ádam Raga will try to get the first place at the Trial Outdoor World Championship, a place that right now belongs to the provisional leader of the competition, the rider Toni Bou. This is expected to happen at the fourth test of the Championship, which will be held next weekend in the city of Motegi, in Japan.

Both riders have proved to be more than trained and Raga is only six points away from Bou. The audience is really looking forward to this special duel, a show that is expected to be as exciting as the one these two riders always give in the Trial championships.

However, Ádam Raga will not be the only representative of GAS GAS, since the British rider James Dabill and the French rider Loris Gubian will be joining him in this test, just like they did in the previous ones. Dabill is really excited about his come back after the break he was forced to take in the championship, while Loris Gubian strongly believes he will be able to give a very good performance.
